SUCCESS AND FAILURE

The world did not really need his success—he needed it. The world did not suffer from his failure—he suffered it. The world did not understand him, then, until he understood how little either his success or his failure matters to the world. He did not know then that how often a good, strong failure is the cornerstone of a well-built life.—Harold Bell Wright in His Yesterdays.

DUTY OF CITIZENS TO BE PROSPEROUS

Dr. L. S. Barton Preaches Strong Sermon on Thrift of Tulsa.

GOOD ROADS COUNT

Better Farms, Highways, Schools and Churches Will Help.

That it is the duty of every Tulsan to be prosperous, was the statement made yesterday morning by Rev. L. S. Barton, pastor of the Boston Avenue Methodist church in his sermon upon "Thrift." Civic happiness will never come to this city until its citizens base their every action on industry, morality, frugality and intellectuality, he declared. His text was taken from Proverbs 22-29 which reads, "Seest thou a man diligent in business? He shall stand before kings."

"The bankers of the United States have inaugurated a nation-wide campaign to encourage our people in the question of thrift," Doctor Barton said. "It is not a matter of getting larger bank deposits, but it is a question of encouraging our people in the fundamental principles of business and success. It is the duty of every good citizen to co-operate with these gentlemen in this great undertaking."

Must Be Busy.
The man who succeeds in life will not question what the work is that he is called on to do. The one question is, he must be busy.

The next question which enters is, morality. It is believed that this element has not been properly appreciated by the young men of this generation. A good moral character is an absolute necessity to the young man who would succeed in this life. One of the first questions now that come to the man who would employ one in his office, or business, is "Is he a man of good moral character?" It is remarkable how men of affairs are watching the movements of the young men who are seeking employment. If young fellows have loose habits and "low in" their money on gay rides, extravagant dress at the theaters and social functions, they must deceive themselves with the thought that they do these things without the knowledge of the business world. The business world knows what the young men's lives are in the community where they live. Thrift actually adds to one's moral assets. The next element that enters the question of prosperity is frugality. Frugality is defined as "prudent economy." I do not know a place where the present generation needs a lesson more than they do at this point. This is at an extravagant age. The most extravagant, perhaps, the world has ever seen. It is alarming to find the tremendous sums that are being spent with carelessness on the part of the young men as the height of folly. Money spent at the cold drink stands, at the moving picture shows, for automobiles, for dress—luxuries in a word—are now reaching into the millions.

Throw It Away.
Men persuade themselves that because the amount is small they are spending, that it amounts to little. They forget that it is "the little leaks that sink the ship." They are not taught the habit of frugality, and no child, be it boy or girl, should be allowed to reach the age of 10 years without a saving account in the bank. It is very encouraging to note that the banks of Tulsa are now doing a saving account business. Many of these accounts being those of the children of our community. A man's saving is so mixed up with his character that he cannot be separated. Lincoln said, "Frugality is the seed of success."

The fourth element that enters into this day of close competition, dealing with keen minds, the mind must be alert. If men succeed in the past without education, it is no reason why men in this age of books and learning should attempt to succeed in the same way without it. There is a greater demand for learning than ever before. Going to school is an evidence of thrift. What a wonderful system of education our free schools are. It is innumerable now for a young man or a young woman to grow up without an education.

New Modern Farm.
The question may be asked and answered here, what will give prosperity to our city, to any city, as to that? I will answer by stating the following things: Modern farm methods. If I should be asked to give one of the possible solutions to the future of Tulsa, I should say the improvement and utilizing of our farming lands. This is one of our greatest needs. We must put more emphasis on the raising of crops and on the raising of stock. Our great necessity in oil has made us rely upon it and we have now reached a stage where more attention must be given to the farm. This will lead to the next thing I want to say. We are slowly awakening to the need of good roads. A lesson that the Romans learned 2,000 years ago. We are slow to believe that a good highway through the country, of the best kind, would be worth as much to us as a new railroad. As a matter of fact it would be worth much more. A highway becomes as it were, a great artery by which the pure blood is conducted to the heart thus giving life. A railroad will benefit competitive towns. Our government has awakened to the great need and now it is possible to secure large sums of money from the government with which to build these roads. We must have better roads. No city can be a great city with poor highways leading to it.

A man that will not encourage this movement is not the best kind of citizen. Good roads involve the question of good schools and churches too. No question confronts the country today of more importance than the making of good roads. The home life must be made more attractive in the country and good roads are one of the many inducements for sturdy country life with this is connected the idea of good country schools and good country churches. With good roads the schools can be reached and church attended at any season of the year. No man can be justly censured for leaving the country if he is kept away from the city by poor roads, and his family have poor opportunities for attending school and church; but if he can come and go as he pleases over good highways, if his family has access to church and school, which is made possible by the good roads, if on the Lord's day he can attend a respectable church of an earnest minister, then millions of our people would prefer the rural life.

I want to speak a word about the citizen who is interested in the prosperity which has to do with his success in the city, but who does nothing to build a city. These men are parasites on society. They receive the advantage of advanced prices in real estate, and other advantages which come with the growing city and yet are unwilling to do anything to bring the growth of the city. If some factory is to be built, some highway to be constructed, or some movement that looks toward the immediate betterment of the city, they will do nothing. I should like to express myself in as strong language as my heart feels about this class of citizenship. To receive all the advantages which come of the sacrifices, toll and expenditures of others, and to be willing to do nothing in return, when they are the immediate beneficiaries of the efforts of these good men, is to declare themselves as not only parasites but ingrates.

Three Things Needed.
In addition to what I have said with reference to good roads, etc., I will say that Tulsa must needs look to three distinct things for her own growth in the future. I do not believe that she can be the great city that she now promises to be if she neglects these three things of which I shall now speak. First, she must look out for more factories. We have the cheap fuel, we have the water, we have the land, but we must secure more factories that will employ multitudes of men and turning out a multiplicity of products. If our splendid Chamber of Commerce will receive our co-operation in its endeavor to bring to the city more of these large factories with diversified interests will come here. Perhaps greater inducements should be offered to secure these industries.

Second, she must improve her conditions of farming and fruit interests. She must encourage farming, truck raising and stock raising. Our country fair cannot be spoken of too highly here. Tulsa county is to be congratulated on making first prize at the state fair. The products that were seen out there at the fair make Tulsa county proud. The possibilities of Tulsa county are seen in the live stock exhibits, farm exhibits, as well as other exhibits, makes us see what we might accomplish. This fair should be made a greater thing each year until it becomes one of the events of all of our country life.

Third, she must make this a good city in which to rear a family. Institutions of an evil kind never yet contributed to the wealth of a community. Over gambling houses and booze joints will eventually be a millstone about the neck that will sink any city into the sea of failure. Our good citizenship is to be congratulated here because it has decreed that there shall have a moral reform along these lines in our city and every moral Tulsan is proud of the fact that today we have none of these joints in our city. Forgetting party lines, the good people of this community have elected a reform administration, and this reform administration is carrying into effect reforms which will give us a great city, and let me say that this administration deserves the respect and co-operation of every good Tulsan.

We shall not be known as a city tramping under foot the laws of our state, the laws of morality and the laws of God. We shall not have our schools, with our splendid churches, with our well kept city, with our public-spirited citizenship, who can profess the future of this young giant of the south-west. In many ways we have a very marvelous city, our prosperity is unbounded. We would remember too the faithful, public-spirited man who is here behind the progress, growth and prosperity of our city. We would remember the same painstaking industry, morality, frugality and intellectuality be practiced in an intensified way in the future will continue to give us a great history. We shall not forget the midst of all this that there is no true moral that there is no real thrift without a devout spirit, that realizes from the Father of mercy come all our blessings. There is no large country where there is no christian religion, and with profound gratitude in our hearts for the blessings of Almighty God, we turn our faces to the future, trusting our all to him, that we may in every respect prosper and do his guidance in everything that is for the success of our city and state.

WOMEN GET HIGH PLACES IN G. O. P.

Given Part With Progressives in Managing Kansas Campaign.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 8.—Women and former Bull Mooseers are being given an equal share in the management of the Republican campaign in Kansas this year. For every place that the Republicans named a man they have seen to it that a woman and a Progressive were given an equal honor and as much work.

It is a real triumphate that is making the campaign for the G. O. P. in Kansas. How successful the plan is cannot be told until the elections in November, but every indication points to a highly successful campaign.

Women Directing Campaign.
In arranging for an advisory council to the state committee the state party council directed that his council be made up of one Republican, one Progressive and one woman for each congressional district. This council really handles the campaign in each district and with the state chairman directs the campaign throughout the state.

Mrs. Eva Merley Murphy of Goodland, a Progressive, is slated for chairman of this council. Mrs. J. M. Miller of Council Grove, head of the Kansas Federation of Women's Clubs, is a member of the committee. Mrs. Margaret Hill McCarter of Topeka is in active charge of the women's bureau for the Republicans.

The former Bull Mooseers are the most in demand of all the speakers in the state committee. has available Henry Allen, J. L. Bristow and W. F. Stubbs have every possible minute of their time filled during October.

First Vote for President.
This is the first time Kansas women have been permitted to vote for president. They exercised suffrage for the first time two years ago and less than one-half the women voted who were eligible went out to the polls.

There are indications that it will be different this year and political leaders estimate that more than 80 per cent of the women will vote in November. The women voters number about a quarter of a million, possibly a little more.

The women are taking more interest in politics. It is quite evident from the number attending political meetings. With the women playing an equal part in the management of the campaign and with numerous women candidates and speakers, this interest is becoming more apparent every day and indicates that approximately the same proportion of women as men will vote this year.

BRYAN WILL TALK PEACE TO TULSA
Is First of Number of Attractions Under Lyceum Direction This Winter.

William Jennings Bryan will appear in Tulsa and deliver a lecture on "Peace" on November 8, under the auspices of the Tulsa Lyceum. This was the announcement given yesterday by the Lyceum committee when the program for the year was announced. Among the other prominent speakers who have been secured for the meetings in Tulsa are John Kendrick Bangs, Dr. E. A. Steiner, Dr. Ne Poon Chew and the Ada Roach and the Oxford companies. By special arrangement Reno the musician will also perform and lecture.

The Lyceum course is supported by the different college, school, church and Y. M. C. A. organizations of the city. Last year a light defeat was found on the year's work but as even better speakers and artists have been obtained this year no loss is expected. The first meeting of the season will be held on October 17. The Cathedral choir will give a concert.

SUGGESTIONS TO SICK WOMEN

How Many Are Restored To Health.

First.—Almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine most successful in relieving female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates and strengthens the organism; it overcomes disease.

For forty years it has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Third.—The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

Fourth.—Every ailing woman in the United States is cordially invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.
